USDA Grant Supports Organic Sweet Potatoes

By Bonnie Coblentz
MSU Ag Communications

Mississippi sweet potato growers will benefit from Mississippi State University's work in a U.S. Department of Agriculture grant for research and outreach in support of organic production.

Grants through USDA's National Institute of Food and Agriculture were announced October 13. MSU is leveraging its $49,273 grant by working with colleagues in California, North Carolina and Louisiana.

"Research, education and extension give the organic agriculture industry the opportunity to expand on best practices, implement more efficient techniques and develop new approaches to distributing its products," said Sonny Ramaswamy, director of the National Institute of Food and Agriculture.

USDA awarded $21 million in grants to help university partners ensure the continued success of organic crops and growers. The MSU grant is part of the Organic Agriculture Research and Extension Initiative.

MSU researchers Stephen Meyers, Casey Barickman and Alba Collart are the principal investigators on this grant. Meyers, who is the MSU Extension Service sweet potato specialist, said the goal of the initiative is to solve critical organic agriculture issues, priorities or problems through the integration of research, education and extension activities.

"Historically, Mississippi sweet potato producers have grown approximately 200 acres of certified organic sweet potatoes," Meyers said. "Between 2014 and 2015, that number has more than doubled, and we are at approximately 500 acres of organic production in Mississippi. It is estimated that this acreage may double again in 2016.

"As a land-grant university, we need to put more effort into understanding organic production systems so that we can provide producers with research-based information to address their needs," he said.

The first objectives of the MSU grant project are to conduct a market assessment of the organic sweet potato industry and a needs assessment for organic sweet potato producers. Two surveys will determine the greatest needs of current producers of transitional or certified organic sweet potatoes, as well as the greatest barriers for those who want to get into organic production.

Another goal is to form an Organic Sweet Potato Advisory Council that will work with researchers to ensure that participating universities meet the greatest needs of organic sweet potato producers.

Mississippi is partnering with researchers from the Louisiana State University AgCenter, North Carolina State University, and the University of California Cooperative Extension to meet these objectives on national and state levels.

"By collaborating with these other states, we'll gain a better understanding of how the needs of our producers differ by state and region," Meyers said. "We'll also have a larger pool of data from our survey instruments. We are also working with smaller sweet potato production states to ensure that their input is included and that they are a part of our advisory council."

42nd Annual Sweet Potato Festival

By MS Sweet Potato Council

The 42nd Annual Sweet Potato Festival will be held November 7, 2015, thru November 14, 2015, in Vardaman, Mississippi - the Sweet Potato Capital of the World.

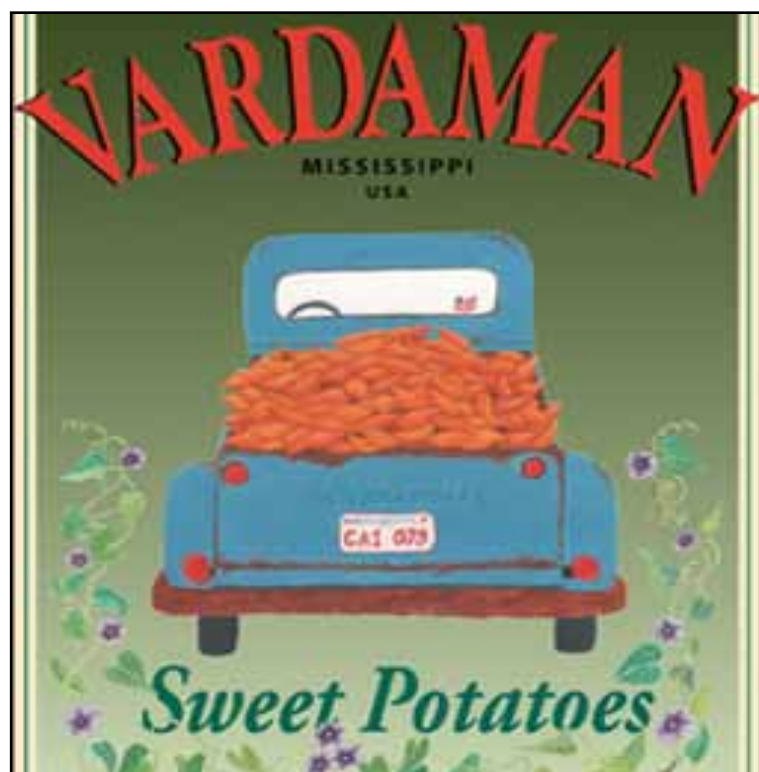

The Vardaman Sweet Potato Festival Committee kicks off its annual Sweet Potato Festival with the Arts and Crafts Day which is always the First Saturday of November and generates crowds of 10,000 to 20,000 people.

Opening day activities include a 5K Run/Walk, Political Speakers, Famous BBQ Chicken at the Fire Station, the Sweet Potato Tasting Booth, and the Information Booth. There are Sweet Potato Critter Contest, Sweet Potato Photography, Artwork, Writing contests, a Pie eating contest and live entertainment.

The week-long celebration of the harvest of the sweet potato crop continues on the following Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, with the Sweet Potato King & Queen Beauty Pageants, ranging from newborns to High School Seniors. Wednesday is Student Government Day, a day in which elected Senior Government Class Students take over the running of the town's government.

The Second Saturday closes the harvest celebration with an original sweet potato recipe contest and the Sweet potato banquet. That evening there is a presentation of awards and the presentation of the Mayors Cup to the winner of the cooking contest. Also at the Banquet, we auction off a hand-made sweet potato quilt, made by the Merry Hearts Club. For information about the Vardaman Sweet Potato Festival, call 662-682-7559 or visit www.vardamansweetpotatofestival.org.

Drain, cool and peel. In a large saucepan over medium heat, combine margarine, brown sugar, 2 cups marshmallows, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cook, stirring occasionally, until marshmallows are melted. Stir potatoes into marshmallow sauce. While stirring mash about half of the potatoes, and break the others into bite-sized chunks. Transfer to prepared dish. Bake in preheated oven for 15 minutes. Small Town, Mississippi, at the Ag Museum is a working replica of a rural crossroads town circa 1920 or thereabouts. Many of the buildings were relocated from other parts of the state and some are recreations or replicas of structures that existed somewhere in Mississippi and outfitted with authentic artifacts of the period. Small Town is, in my book, the ultimate example of recycled and repurposed buildings assembled together to preserve a way of life and teach generations about the progress of agricultural life.

The town has exhibits that include almost everything a rural farm town would have had to be self-sufficient. Each building has multiple layers of history to teach us. Each one portrays an important profession like the print shop and sawmill, or a social gathering place like the masonic lodge and the church. Combined with practical depictions, each exhibit has a depth of the history and interesting characters that came with them from their original locations. Each one is uniquely Mississippi and melds together stories of people from other small communities and who sort of all live together in Small Town today.

The Small Town neighborhood looks like this: The Fortenberry-Parkman family who owned the farmstead in Jefferson Davis County now reside next to the Hederman Brothers who helped put together the TZBH Print Shop. Dr. Melvin's Doctor's Office was moved from Camden to be across from the Masonic Lodge representative of one in Woodland and just down the street is the Church that moved three times, starting from Carlisle then to Hermanville, before it came home to the Ag Museum. The Bisland Cotton Gin came from Cannonsburg near Natchez, the Jail came from West, and the Sawmill from Jefferson Davis County. Now, you know if all of these people were alive today, and all showed up in town one day, they would figure out who everybody's 'people' were and how they were related before the whistle blew at the Cotton Gin. I would love to hear that conversation!

I have never heard who might have run the Filling Station, but that guy is now right across the street from Mr. McIntosh at the Blacksmith Shop from Taylorsville. There was a transitional period when automobiles and horse drawn vehicles existed together I suppose, and I bet this would be the 'corner' where the men gathered to gossip and talk about the weather while they waited on parts to be fixed.

The history of the McIntosh Blacksmith Shop in Small Town is characteristic of the hard working people in rural Mississippi.

Lee Roy McIntosh and father Daniel (Dannie) White McIntosh were sharecropping in Jasper County, near Bay Springs in 1933-34. Dannie had been a master mechanic for the Eastman and Gardner Lumber Company at the Cohay Logging Camp near Raleigh, Miss. As the master mechanic, Dannie was a blacksmith and a good one. He was descended from three generations of blacksmiths. He was trained to blacksmith and veterinary work. As the master mechanic, he kept the tools and equipment in good working order and doctored injured or sick logging horses. He earned good wages and work was satisfying and fulfilling. As is often the case, all good things come to an end. During the Great Depression, work was hard to find so Dannie and Lee Roy took the job of sharecropping. They were unhappy as share croppers and they had begun thinking about their own shop.

Dannie went to Taylorsville, Miss., to see if he could rent a suitable building for a blacksmith shop with purchase rights. He found an old building with a dirt floor. The building was perfect for a blacksmith shop and in the perfect location. He rented the building and rented a house. He moved his family and set up the shop. Business was so good that Dannie asked Lee Roy to be his partner. By the fall of 1934, Lee Roy rented a house near Dannie. He moved his family and became a partner with his father. The shop was named D.W. McIntosh and Son.

Dannie was continually called out to doctor sick or injured livestock. He had an excellent reputation as a veterinarian; he was referred to as Doctor Dannie McIntosh. His work as a veterinarian was so demanding he had to make a decision whether to try to continue with the blacksmith shop. At about the same time, he had the opportunity to buy a farm with a good house, barn and smokehouse. He decided to purchase the farm. He did some farming and did his veterinarian work full time.

Dannie sold his part of the blacksmith shop to Lee Roy. Lee Roy added on the front of the shop and poured a cement floor, then added a gristmill for grinding corn into cornmeal. On a regular basis he delivered meal to the stores in Laurel.

Lee Roy had his hands full doing blacksmith work and grinding corn. His days were twelve hours long as a rule, but the good Lord gave him strength and allowed him to prosper, after all, he and his wife were rearing eight children. During the depression years, the people that could find a job only earned about a dollar a day, but Lee Roy was earning five to six times more as a rule. There was always plow points to sharpen, mule drawn plows and planters to rebuild, stalk and week cutters to sharpen, wagon wheels to be refilled, wagon bodies to rebuild, and some truck wood bodies to build.

...When WWII came along in the early 1940's, men were needed to build military installations. While Lee Roy was helping build Camp Shelby and Keesler Field, Dannie McIntosh and Mr. Preston Atchley ran the shop. For the most part, Lee Roy never returned to the shop, except for short periods of time. Since the last forties, the shop remained closed.

by Melroy McIntosh, son of Lee Roy McIntosh

The McIntosh Blacksmith Shop was donated to the Ag Museum, along with many of the tools made and used by the McIntosh's. Since 1997, it has been home to the Mississippi Forge Council who meet and hold classes and public demonstrations every third Saturday of the month and during special events.

The Mississippi Forge Council is the Mississippi Organization of Blacksmiths. The non-profit, for education, is an organization dedicated to preserving and teaching traditional blacksmithing techniques as applied to decorative ironwork. Although their focus is primarily ironwork, their interests include metal work of all kinds. Members are skilled in working with copper, brass, stainless steel, Damascus steel, mokume, repousse', chasing, scrimshaw, and patina applications. They make tools, knives, colonial ironwork, fountains, sculptures, jewelry, you name it.

Lyle Wynn, Treasurer for the Council, teaches classes, usually one-on-one, like an apprenticeship for a beginner and also for experienced master smiths. His students come from all over the US, Brazil and Australia. Facebook, social media, and going state to state doing demonstrations for other blacksmith groups are the ways he gets the word out about his work. He teaches how to make tools including tools to make tools with. Teaching the art of blacksmithing is his livelihood. Mutual of Omaha did a feature on Lyle in May. Look him up on YouTube to see modern blacksmiths at work.

The Blacksmith Shop will be in operation during Pumpkin Adventure and Harvest Festival this fall.

The November 2014 fire has not stopped the Museum's effort to teach the next generation about the importance of agriculture and the innovations our ancestors developed to feed, clothe, and house themselves. Rebuilding efforts are underway, as well as continuing efforts toward the master plan renovations which began in 2013. If you would like to make a donation to the 'Raising the Barn' campaign, make checks payable to the Mississippi Agriculture Museum Foundation, 1150 Lakeland Drive, Jackson, MS 39216. Call us to learn about volunteer opportunities.

The Ag Museum is located at 1150 Lakeland Drive in Jackson and is open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. In addition to our gallery and exhibit spaces, the Ag Museum also has room for your event, whether it's a meeting, a wedding or other special event. Call (601) 432-4500 for information.

Mississippi College Equestrian Team Saddles Up for New Season

By Andy Kanengiser
MC University News Coordinator

Mississippi College equestrian rider Erica Reynolds advanced to the 2015 Nationals in Springfield, Massachusetts.

Capping a terrific season, Erica became only the second MC rider in school history to reach the Inter-collegiate Horse Show Association championships. Meredith Guider of Hinds County was the first MC standout to make that leap in 2008.

As Mississippi College saddles up for its 9th equestrian season this fall, there's good news: Erica returns with her horse to jump more fences, and win more ribbons.

The Mississippi College senior didn't place at the Massachusetts event ending May 3. But the Texan sharpened her skills and built her confidence just by being in elite company at the Nationals.

"It was the coolest experience to see all of the top collegiate riders in the USA at the same show competing against each other," says Reynolds, a Dallas resident. "The horses at the show were some of the most talented horses I've seen," she added. "Nationals was awesome."

The talented MC student shined at the IHSA zone competition in Georgia in late March to punch her ticket to the Nationals.

Based at 2,000-acre Providence Hill Farm, the MC equestrian team is expected to again rank among the best college squads in the South during the 2015-16 season.

The new season began with competition at the University of Alabama October 17-18. There's another IHSA tournament at Berry College in Georgia November 7-8. In 2016, MC takes February road trips to schools like Auburn University and Berry College for more action. The regionals are booked for March 15 at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa.

While facing bigger schools, Mississippi College competes very well in the region. This year's team features 12 student-athletes from six states. They come from as far away as New Jersey (sophomore Jamie Kurlej) and California (sophomore Natalie Baumann and Ashley Brogan), and close as Mississippi (Erin Steffey, Darby Damon and Bailey Welch).

An MC sophomore and graduate of Northwest Rankin High in Brandon, Erin is the daughter of MC Law professor Matt Steffey.

A nursing major who plans to become a nurse practitioner, Erin "loves the horses and the challenge of getting better," Matt Steffey says. "But what she loves the most is her friendship with the girls on the team and the sense of comradeship among the team and coaches."

The equestrian team, he said, was a key factor in Erin's selection of Mississippi College.

MC's team features horses with interesting names. Veteran horses include: Mac, Laddie, and Hale Bopp. Newly acquired horses such as Capiche from New Mexico and Quinn from New York will add more spice to the lineup. "Boppie" was among the stars of a new movie "A Gift Horse" that was filmed at Providence Hill Farm.

Equestrian team head coach Tina Davey is pumped about MC's prospects this fall and spring.

"We had a great season last year sending four riders to zones, and having Erica ride for our team at Nationals," Davey said. "We are excited about this upcoming year."

Former MC equestrian head coach Mandi Powers returns as the team's assistant coach. Mandi doubles as Jackson Prep's equestrian team coach. She also leads the horse riding lesson program at Providence Hill Farm.

Prospective Mississippi College students interested in joining the equestrian team are invited along with their parents to an open house at Providence Hill Farm on November 14. It coincides with the Christian university's Preview Day that Saturday.

"It's a great opportunity to learn more about the team," says Davey, a former California star collegiate rider.

For more information, go to www.mcequestrianteam.com or contact Tina Davey at cdavey@mc.edu or reach Mandi Powers at mandi@providencehillfarm.com.

Designation of Counties to Receive FSA Disaster Loan Applications Due to Drought

By USDA-FSA

Due to the recent drought, emergency loans for farmers, ranchers and operators are available through the Farm Service Agency (FSA). This authority is pursuant to the Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack's declaration on September 23, 2015, of a major disaster in Mississippi caused by a drought intensity value during the growing season of: (1) D2 (Drought-Severe) for eight or more consecutive weeks; or (2) D3 (Drought-Extreme) or D4 (Drought-Exceptional) according to the U.S. Drought Monitor.

In accordance with 7 CFR 759.5(a), 10 Mississippi counties designated as primary natural disaster areas due to a recent drought are: Attala, Carroll, Claiborne, Copiah, Holmes, Lawrence, Leflore, Lincoln, Sunflower and Washington.

In accordance with section 321(a) of the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act, 25 counties are named as contiguous disaster counties. The contiguous counties included under this designation are: Amite, Bolivar, Choctaw, Coahoma, Franklin, Grenada, Hinds, Humphreys, Issaquena, Jefferson, Jefferson Davis, Leake, Madison, Marion, Montgomery, Neshoba, Pike, Rankin, Sharkey, Simpson, Tallahatchie, Walthall, Warren, Winston and Yazoo.

Applications for assistance in the disaster-stricken counties will be accepted by FSA through May 23, 2016.

The Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP) provides compensation to eligible livestock producers that have suffered grazing losses for covered livestock on land that is native or improved pastureland with permanent vegetative cover or is planted specifically for grazing. The grazing losses must be due to a qualifying drought condition during the normal grazing period for the county.

Eligible livestock types under LFP include alpacas, beef cattle, buffalo, beefalo, dairy cattle, deer, elk, emus, equine, goats, llamas, poultry, reindeer, sheep or swine that have been or would have been grazing the eligible grazing land or pastureland.

FSA will calculate LFP payments for an eligible livestock producer for grazing losses because of a qualifying drought equal to 1, 3, 4 or 5 times the LFP monthly payment rate. The LFP monthly payment rate for drought is equal to 60 percent of the lesser of the monthly feed cost:

- For all covered livestock owned or leased by the eligible livestock producer;
- Calculated by using the normal carrying capacity of the eligible grazing land of the eligible livestock producer.

Total LFP payments to an eligible livestock producer in a calendar year for grazing losses will not exceed five monthly payments for the same livestock.

Farmers qualifying for emergency loans may borrow up to 100 percent of their actual production loss or the amount needed to restore their operation to its pre-disaster condition, whichever is less. The new emergency loan and outstanding principal balance of any existing emergency loan owed by the applicant or any individual member of an entity cannot exceed $500,000.00.

FSA emergency loans cover losses from designated disasters and are made to qualified farmers who cannot obtain credit from other lenders in the local area.

For more information contact your local FSA office or USDA Service Center, or visit the FSA online at www.fsa.usda.gov.

'Cutting Down' on Timber Theft

By Susan Head
Grants Management & Marketing Specialist - MDAC

Commissioner Cindy Hyde-Smith and the Mississippi Agriculture & Livestock Theft Bureau would like to remind you of a few key tips when harvesting timber:

- Before timber is harvested, contact a local forester first for recommendations of reputable timber buyers and loggers. Registered foresters are listed on Mississippi State University's website for the Mississippi Board of Registration for Foresters, <http://www.cfr.msstate.edu/borf/>.
- Have timber cruised to estimate the amount of standing timber the forest contains.
- Obtain at least 3 bids from loggers.
- Always require a written timber contract for deed and have it notarized and filed by the Chancery Clerks office in your county.

The Ag Theft Bureau has investigated numerous complaints this year with some of those investigations resulting in arrest.

Recent arrests include:

- Billy Dees of Enid, Miss., charged with timber theft in Yalobusha and Panola Counties.
- James E. Smith, Jr.

of Wesson, Miss., charged with timber theft in Copiah County.

Allen Crosthwait of Houston, Miss., charged with timber theft in Chickasaw County.

Lonnie Bickham of Franklin, La., charged with two counts of timber theft in Walthall County.

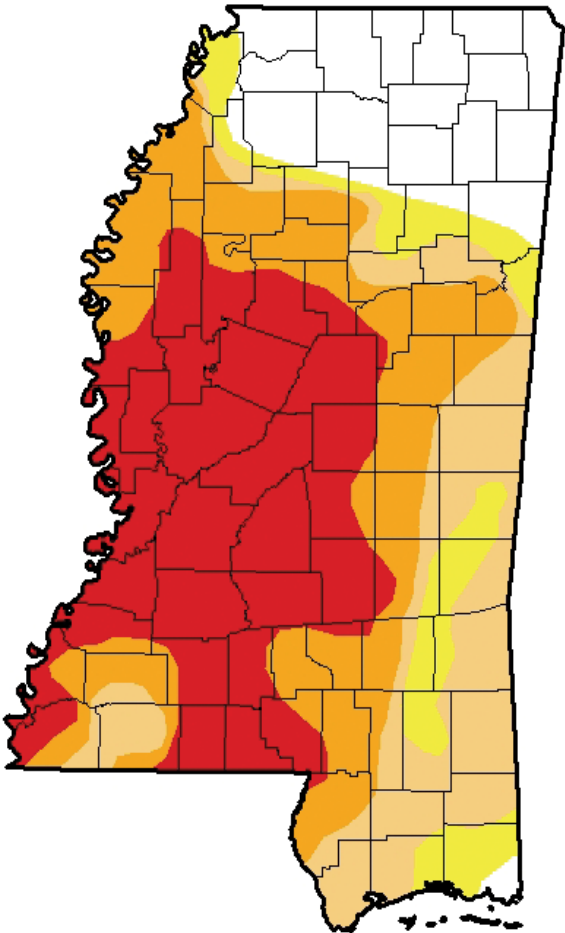

These are charges only and not convictions. All persons are presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

If you suspect any criminal activity on any ag-related issue, please contact the Mississippi Agriculture & Livestock Theft Bureau at 601-359-1121 or toll free at 1-800-678-2660.
